

Abstract

A textile machine with at least one dust removal device is described. The dust removal is performed by providing at least one electrostatically chargeable dust collector element (16) and a means (24, 25) for removing dust collected with the dust collector element (16) (Figure 2).